History of the Class of 1924½

This interesting and unique document was found in the waste cans in the lunch-room in 1999, though why it was there, I cannot imagine:

EXTRACKTE FROM YE HISTORIE OF YE CLASSE OF 1924½

These three years have seene deepe prosperitie and happieness in ye illustrius Halles of Ye Greate Centrale Highe School, due to ye extreme brilliancie and amazing activities of ye classe of '24½. Accordynge to ye usuale custom, sayd classe has holden manie and greate activities.

Ye 1B Yeare

Two meetings were holden at which dignified (?) Seniors expounded upon the theory of backing up the best school in the solar system in everything you do.

Ye 1A Yeare

Ye classe became socially inclined. There was holden a 1A social. There was never holden one much-discussed classe sleighride.

Ye 2B Yeare

The financial status of each member was less by ten cents a month instead of five cents a month as formerly. Also, ye banner of ye classe was chosen — silver gray and hunter green. In Tech's gym was held the 2B social.

Ye 2A Yeare

Manie and importante were the happenings of this year. "Ye Sojourners" was presented in ye Thanksgiving Assembly. From eminent contemporary authorities, it is found that never will such a grand and glorious Junior Prom be held in Central's Halles (or rather her gym), as was given by this illustrius classe in ye gym at Commerce. Perhaps future generations would like to know whose brilliant mind conceived the idea of making them walk "Single File" and "don't run" at Recess. That is due to that modest, bashful, retiring person who answers in the roll-call to the name of George Arnold Yarrington. Ye spotlight used much by Ye Drama Class was the gift chosen by ye classe for ye schoole. This was finally selected after such heated discussions that the windows in the Science Hall had to be opened as ye thermometer rose 20 degrees because of ye hot air.

Ye 3B Yeare

Greate excitement was manifested in ye classe elections, at which President Robert Harris was successful for the third time. A good time was had by all at ye 3B dance and 3B Card Party. There was a goodly attendance at classe meetings, probably to hear Mr. Nahikian advise us to break up the clique then running the class.

Ye 3A Yeare

Ye miracles still do happen. We have arrived at the august position of Seniors. "Jimmy" Prendergast and George Yarrington decide to favor us. "Jimmy" in his usual capacity runs successfully ye 3A Dance and Ye Senior Prom. Ye usual Senior activities are outstanding in ye classe.

When ye Recessional March is over in Ye Auditorium ye greatest class, 1924½, will pass out from Central's portals, a class whose members started the movement for drinking fountains in the corridors, student regulation of traffic, student regulation of dancing, and a student honor system.

Dorothy Hayden

Class Poem

'Tis come. That last and long-sought day is here.
And now, forthwith, to life we gaily fare;
Fraught with desire to try to find, to see
The colors in life's harmony, we go.
Central, farewell.

And yet, we go not wholly unprepared,
But as adventurers with well-stocked pack,
Advance to buffet with the winds of chance.
Ready. All this to you we owe.
Central, farewell.

For three short years we've studied in your halls,
Learning to do, to know, to make our lives
Worth while, and when once more we gather here
With thanks we'll count the mile-stones of this course.
Central, farewell.

And so, where e'er the shallops of our fate
Shall toss upon the waters of romance,
We'll keep undimmed your pleasant memories,
A chart, by which to guide our destinies.
Central, farewell.

LOUISE DAVIS

Class Song

TWENTY-FOUR AND FIFTY

Schoolmates, Classmates, the time draws near
When we must all say Goodbye;
Let us join in a hearty cheer
For dear old Central High.

Chorus

Central High — Central High,
May its splendid fame and glory never die.
Everywhere, Central's there;
Up among the winners shall its colors fly.
Classes come, classes go,
But we want this great wide world of ours to know
The class of twenty-four and fifty
Is as clever and as nifty
As ever left old Central High.

Patter

C — stands for Central High, the school beyond compare,
E — means that everybody's treated on the square,
N — is for nineteen twenty-four and a half,
T — the splendid teachers that are on the Central Staff,
R — right and rigid rules, regardless of your race,
A — for Alma Mater, in our hearts a lasting place,
L — is for loyalty, the kind that's staunch and true,
C-E-N-T-R-A-L, we'll always be for you!

WILHELMINA BELLI

Presentation of the Class of 1924½

Ladies, Gentlemen, and Friends:

As this class of 1924½ is full of noted and deserving people, it being a particularly gifted class, anyway, I should like, on behalf of the class, to present to some of them small tokens to show our appreciation for them and their characteristics. As it is not possible to give a gift to everyone, we hope that those who do not receive one will be as broad-minded and as understanding as is possible.

I should like to make the first gift to "Bob" Harris, our president. "Bob," will you step up here with "Dot" Hayden and Eleanor Greenaway?

Girls, we know how it must be to be both fighting for one popular fellow, and as you cannot both have him, here are exact duplicates of him, one for each of you; so you should both be happy. Now, "Bob," in recognition of your conquest over all difficulties, including girls, I should like to present you with this bottle of olives . . . the nearest thing I could get to a conqueror's wreath.

Robert Chamberlain (red necktie). "Bob," when we saw you in "Twelfth Night," we knew that something was missing, even with those yellow stockings and black cross-garters, so here is a modest little necktie to wear when you appear again.

Louise Davis. Louise, in recognition of your ability as an actress and play manager, I should like to present you with this copy of the Socialist Party Platform. Now that the election is over, I think there will be plenty of room on it for you to do all the acting and managing you want to.

Mary Thornton. Here, Mary, is a perfect image of "Dinny," that you may keep with you while you are away from him, and you may be able to teach it to dance; so that you can keep on dancing if he should hurt his leg again.

"Jimmie" Prendergast and "Ginny" Boss. "Jimmie" and "Ginny," I should hate to take any chance of ever seeing you two separated; so here, my dears, is a bottle of glue that will mend all your broken matches, and, if used soon enough, will even prevent the breaks.

"Jack" Lockwood. "Jack," our hero, our answer to a maiden's prayer, here is a little gift that will insure your beauty forever. It is "Palmolive"; so have no fear for your school-boy complexion.

Madeline Ballard (watchman's rattle). I take pity on you, Madeline, for not being able to make yourself heard around the school, so here is a gift that you can use to let people know when you are around.

Max Klein (stuffed ham). This, Max, is a little gift from the class that you may take on the next Sunday School Picnic you attend.

Betty Alden. Betty, we have noticed that you are always "in the dark" about something; so here is a little lamp to light your dark and perilous journey in the future.

Mae Longtine and Ervine Shaw. Here is a present for you, Mae, that I know will make you big and strong like the rest of the girls. All you have to do is follow carefully the directions on this box of Mellon's Baby Food. As for you, "Red," we would like to see you become as tall and distinguished as possible; so, "Shorty," here is a yeast cake to help you rise.

Robert Frisbie. To you, our sheik, I should like to present this small oil-can which you may put in use when you need a rest, as well as when your hair becomes mussed.

"Bill" Shaw. Three or four years ago, "Bill," you started after an office in Central. This gift is a representation of an office, and I should like to have you accept it; so that you will not leave Central without first having held an office.

"Peg" Torrey. Here we have the inventor of all our wonderful money-making schemes. We know, "Peg," that some day your fortune will be made with one of your clever ideas; so here is a little note-book for you to keep them in, and when this is full, you may have another.

Glenn Pease. According to Mr. Hill, and many others, Glenn, your health will be ruined by your weakness for cigarettes, so in order to give you your desire and prevent you from losing your health, here is a package of candy cigarettes.

George Yarrington (cigar and medal). We know that you don't need these, George, but they will help appearances; so that everyone will know you are a politician.

"Tom" Manning. "Tom," old boy, we are afraid that when you leave Central, you will get out of practice in your favorite indoor sport; so here is a small cow, the nearest thing we could get to a bull, which you may take home and practice shooting on.

That is all we have to give out, and I thank you for your time and attention. I only hope that these gifts have all been received in the same spirit in which they were given.

ROBERT ARNOLD

Prophecy of the Class of 1924½

This is station Pro-Phe-Cy broadcasting: Good evening, folks.

Miss Jessie Scott, journalist, will give the news of the day.

Miss Betty Alden and Miss Charlotte Bausman have opened a kindergarten in Ludlow, Massachusetts, and many of the children of the city attend.

Miss Madeline Ballard and Miss Virginia Boss are leading dancers in the Brown Brothers' Follies of 1925, which is being staged at Goldstein's Theatre in Chicopee.

Miss Esther Carlson, who won a recent Beauty Contest held at Indian Orchard, has opened to the public her beauty parlor where she claims to make people as beautiful as herself. Many of her former classmates have applied to Miss Carlson for treatment.

Miss Eleanor Greenaway of Greenwich Village, a well-known artist, has just received the Arnold reward of $500,000, for her painting, "Boy Holding Toothpick," which was entered in the recent contest.

Miss Elizabeth Flanaghan and Mr. Robert Frisbie are playing opposite each other in "Oriental Moon." Mr. Frisbie is playing the part of the sheik, while Miss Flanaghan is the oriental princess.

Miss Wilhelmina Belli and Miss Helen Abbott are at the head of the Home for Feeble-minded. They say it is really amazing how many of their classmates have come there.

Miss Dorothy Hiland and Mr. Robert Arnold were given a surprise party last evening in honor of their fifteenth anniversary.

Mrs. Allyn Baker, prominent society woman of New York City, who was Miss Dorothy Hayden of Springfield, Massachusetts, is visiting one of her old classmates, Miss Mary Smith of Los Angeles, California. Miss Smith before her advent on the American Stage was Miss Louise Davis, formerly of Springfield, Massachusetts.

Mr. Joseph Golan, a Professor of Psychology, has just written a book entitled, "The Joys of Bachelorhood." His next book will be "Perfect Peace."

President Robert Somerby Harris went out the back door of the White House today instead of the front door.

Miss Edwina Bradley is a professor in the Hastings School of Toreadors.

Policeman James M. Connor has just been made the Chief of Police of Feeding Hills.

Rev. Bayard Clark will give the Sunday sermon this week over the radio.

George Tsatsis, world-famed bass soloist, will soon come to Poli's, to sing that popular Greek folk song, "O Sole Mio."

James Eaton Steele, Jr., Chairman of the Chicopee Sanitation Committee, will make a plea for the need of more sewers in Chicopee since prohibition.

We anticipate with pleasure English Professor Abraham Rubin's lecture from Harvard, "Was Hamlet Really Insane?"

Glenn Hunter Pease, star of "Sentimental Tommy," will render a ballad entitled, "You Can't Drive a Nail with a Sponge, No Matter How Much You Soak It."

"Jack" Lockwood, the athletic coach, will tell of the body-building advantages of ping-pong.

"Fred" Sackett, American Toreador, graduate of the Hastings School, will now give us a lecture on, "How to Throw the Bull Successfully."

Thomas Manning, a great virtuoso, will play "Asa's Death" from "Peer Gynt."

Alfred Marchetti will talk from experience on the advantages of Sing Sing, over Charleston, as he has been sent to both as an Inspector of Prisons.

Charlotte Kingston and Mae Longtine will sing a duet entitled, "We Want a Little Loving, From a Great Big Brute."

The setting-up for the reducing class will be led by the tall man of Moller's Circus, Ervine Shaw.

Countess Honkachesitsky will tell of the attempt of the Soviet Government to introduce Coconut growing in Siberia. The Countess will be remembered as Tessie Radding.

Grace Mitton, the star of the musical comedy, will sing, "I Hate Men."

An instructive talk will be given by Elsie Renzetti on, "How to Cook Cabbage Inoffensively."

Miss Mary Thornton, representing the Reformers' League, will talk on "The Evils of the Modern Dance."

Miss Margaret Torrey, President of the Woman's Club, will lecture on "How to Successfully Write a Sonnet."

Miss Sarah Waller will conduct the class in interior decorating.

Imelda Lester, representing the Women's Party, will advance the Thirty-third amendment which states that a woman may have more than one husband at a time.

George Yarrington, popular politician and leader of the Progressive Party, will make his subject, "The Perils of President Prendergast's Policy."

And finally, but not least, Reuben Weinstein, world-famous cornetist, will whistle "The End of A Perfect Day."

Prophecy on Prophets

After wandering around the world for a period of about fifteen years, I was cast by chance upon a small South Sea Island. After shaking the mist out of my eyes, I was nearly swept away by a sudden stampeding of the natives who rushed down the beach, not even noticing me. Looking around for the cause of this sudden show of ambition and life, I heard a low rumble which grew and grew, only to fall into silence, and then begin again. My curiosity was aroused to such an extent that I swept all caution aside and started running in the direction from which was coming the sound of thunder. After running for half a mile or more, I came upon a quiet little scene of actors and actresses, and I realized that this was the place that the sound had come from. At last, I saw a man standing in the middle of the group, giving directions and discussing the speech he had just made. It took me but a second to see that it was no other than my old classmate, "Bob" Chamberlain. As we clasped hands and tried excitedly to tell and hear everything, I found that Mr. Chamberlain, who had made a name for himself on the stage, was out on this quiet island rehearsing a Shakespearean Drama for the coming season.

One of the things he told me was that another of our dear classmates was on the island, and there as a missionary. It took but a moment to find out that this was no other than our old friend Jennie Dorman.

That evening we had a great old reunion and discussed the days gone by at dear old Central High.

BARNES MOLLER
JAMES STEELE, JR.

Will of the Class of 1924½

WE, the Class of 1924½, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, and in the foundation of Central High School, the eighty-fourth, being in good health of body, and of sound mind and memory, yet considering the uncertainty of our lives, and to the end that we may leave the Central High School in good standing, do therefore, make and declare this our last will and testament, in the manner following, that is to say:

1. We hereby appoint as our executors, Miss Georgia Lyon and Mr. Raymond Fenner.

2. We direct that all our just debts and funeral expenses be paid as soon after our decease as may be expedient.

3. To all future and prospective Senior Classes of the Central High School, we hereby bequeath the unattainable example of the most perfect class of the best school in the solar system.

4. To the class of 1925, we will donate the long sought for honor of sitting in the front seats, as we fear that because of their increase in stature and intelligence, their senses of sight and hearing may be dulled.

5. In order to appease Miss Anthony's righteous indignation at the weak and crippled vocal demonstrations of the school at large, '24½ hereby discards whatever supposed singing ability which we possess, to the worthy Freshman Class in hopes they will always be at hand to prove Miss Anthony's point.

6. To all present and future class treasurers, Margaret Elizabeth Torrey leaves the magical power of her winning smile which painlessly draws forth necessary coinage from her resisting debtors.

7. Mary Thornton, that coy young damsel, regretfully turns over the immediate care of "Dinny's" welfare, to the solicitude of the worthy 3B class. She trusts that they will realize their responsibility and perform the task equally as well.

8. Yarrington, that bashful, taciturn, conservative, tongue-tied, studious youth, asked that his overflowing ability, since he thinks no one can possibly be found to carry the overwhelming responsibility, be distributed among George Cavanaugh, "Deac" Root, and Ward Hurlburt.

9. When the proud and haughty alumni of Central return to their Alma Mater, they will be surprised to hear that "Jimmie" Prendergast, "Drip" Pease, and "Tommy" Manning have eventually joined their ranks, having bequeathed the art of "flunking" to John Sullivan, "Mike" Derosiers and "Eddie" Breck.

10. To Elizabeth Peer, that promising Freshman, Tessie Radding takes the liberty of leaving her resourceful ability to convince her teachers that she really is a very, very smart girl.

11. Madeline Ballard and her giggles will now be forced to part because she hereby generously bestows them on "Betty" Fearns although she really does not need them.

12. Since we do not see how there can possibly be any dance or social worthy of the name, now that "Jimmie" Prendergast is in our departing ranks, we leave his ability to put across Proms with great success to the budding dance manager, Walter Blomfield.

13. In order that the present 3B class may have an exceptional class song, "Billy" Belli leaves her knack of composing to the said class to be held in trust till such time as they may need it.

14. Grace Mitton, Violet Memery, Madeline Ballard, leave their gift of gab to Doris Drescher, Betty Proctor, and Kathryn Ring, so that the prattle and bubble of their tongues will never be missed in the second floor corridors.

15. In order to insure the success of the future school plays, "Bob" Chamberlain leaves his talent as an actor to the Drama Class, to be used at such times as is necessary.

16. In order to have the school run smoothly after their departure, "Jimmie" Prendergast, George Yarrington, "Bob" Frisbie, and "Bob" Harris, leave their ability to run everything to Mr. Hill, to be used by him in whatever way he sees fit.

17. And last we leave to the whole dear school, our wishes for the best luck in the future and a never ending, successful life.

In witness whereof, we have signed and declared this instrument our last will and testament, on this eighth day of January, 1925.

Signed: Robert S. Harris

Signed, published, and declared by the above named president, as and for the last will and testament of the class of 1924½, in the presence of us, who at his request, have signed as witnesses to the same:

History of the Class of 1925

TO THE MOST HIGH AND MIGHTY CLASS OF '25
BY DINT OF SEVERE LABOR
THE GRADUATING CLASS OF THE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL
SPRINGFIELD, MASSACHUSETTS
THE HISTORIANS OF THE CLASS WISH GRACE, MERCY, AND PEACE!

In the beginning the principals of the several Junior High Schools created the Class of '25.

And the Class was without form or history, and blankness was upon the pages of its Book of Life. And the Senior Class President moved into the midst of the class meeting.

And the Senior Class President said, "Let them now choose the light whereby they shall be guided." And we chose "Dinny."

And Central saw "Dinny" that he was good.

And there rose up in the midst of the assemblage of the class "Deacon" Root, whose father was a Republican, and who is himself a Republican and, accordingly, conservative, and from the rising of the sun even unto the going down thereof this man pleaded with the Class that it should adopt but 5¢ dues.

And upon December 14 was the 1B Social, and fear divided the one side of the room from the other.

And upon the one side were the girls and upon the other side were the boys, and only Melvin Holstein and Lucy Jewett ventured to approach each other.

And September and February were the first semester.

And it came to pass that during the second semester the Class saw fit to choose unto itself Class Colors, and great thunderings shook all the building with the fierce dissension ere favor was accorded unto scarlet and silver.

And the responsibility of being no longer Freshmen weighed heavily upon the Class of '25, and it gave unto Central an assembly, whereat the damsel Natalie read with enthusiastic fervor The Highwayman, where a maiden from the king's court, even Betty Cody, danced before all the assemblage, and Esther Forristall played upon a strange and loud instrument.

And the Class chose them April 20 for their next social.

And February and June were the second semester.

And lo! Upon the rise of the third semester the members of the chosen people found themselves scattered about upon the high places of the second floor, and, behold, they were no longer Freshmen, and could look down upon those lowly creatures.

And they had them December 14 for their third social.

And September and February were the third semester.

And then the Class saw that it was the 2A Class. And Mr. Hill said, "Let them be for a light in Central to give light unto the school," and we became upperclassmen. And yea, during that semester the chosen people dwelt for five months in the wilderness of the remote and freezing portables where no warm radiator is, and it befell that Melvin Holstein and "Dave" Halpern carried the maiden Faith across the raging torrent of water that one morning separated the wilderness from the rest of the earth. And lo — a Miracle — there befell a day when the water pipe was verily hot, but it straightway broke into a thousand pieces, and as the boiling bubbles rushed to the parched surface of the earth by 191 Nina proclaimed it a true hot spring, which indeed it was.

Then vanity assailed the hearts of the young men of the class and Ward Hurlburt, Franklyn Palmer, "Deacon" Root, and other young men of the Drama Class appeared attired in beautiful Windsor Ties. The maidens also went astray, and even Faith after great and painful deliberation decided to cut her long and brilliant locks.

And it happened that "Bill" Lane became moved by the greatness of the stars and the movements of the heavenly bodies, and when Dr. Law demanded of him three reasons why the earth was round he replied unto her, "Dad says so, Mother says so, and you say so." Even so learning increased in the midst of the Class. And the Class set them April 25 for the date of their Junior Prom, and behold it was very good.

And February and June were the fourth semester.

With the rising of the new day came "Bob" Blakeslee from the East, and ere long he gathered about him a great following whom the Class was pleased to call "those Blakeslee Boys." And there came a mighty sale of football pins, wherein Betty Cody was a great and shining light, and the Class added many shekels of silver unto its treasure chests.

And there came a great rallying of the people of Central to choose unto the United States a President, and Ward Hurlburt led the Republicans to victory over the heads of the followers of those arch-conspirators, LaFollette and George Yarrington.

And Twelfth Night fell upon the school, wherein Natalie Center decided that she preferred her brunette locks to her customary blonde ones, and "Kaye" Hartt taught the young J. Wesley, who aspired to sing like unto the fowls of the air, a song of an unclean and ancient individual named William. There was, moreover, the prize speaking contest, wherein Clara Martin sat with a cider jug conveniently placed beneath her chair. And there came one day a descent of water upon Room 221, and as it trickled along the upper regions near unto the electric light that singer of songs explained it to be the electric juice.

Behold one Monday morning the Latin classes entered 221 to find that some less serious-minded members of the Class had hung up a complete washing upon an hastily improvised clothesline extended from one end of the room even unto the other. And here the great light "Dinny" wept his first tears, that the goddesses should "really act that way," and that Æneas should never see his beloved Creusa again. And there was a great Christmas Dance, whereat Betty Fearns, famous among all the men (and women) of the Class, distinguished herself once again as a planner of successful dances.

And September and February were the sixth semester.

The final day of the Creation of the Class arose upon Wilma Chizmarick with exceeding brilliant purple stockings which threatened the eyesight of all members of the class except "Dinny" and "Dick" Danforth who, themselves, wear ties and socks to rival any colors which any mere maidens might display.

And yea, even "Eddie" Breck appeared with a choker which he was duly warned against by Miss Michel.

And Kilbourne Bump also betrayed an anxiety for his appearance, and was accused by all the people of using iodine as a hair-dye.

And George Baker, not to be outdone in unusual achievement, listed for the Blue and White "G. A. A. (1, 2, 3)."

There followed the 3A Dance and those last full days which are even now pressing unto a close. And to preserve them a likeness in the school the Class of '25 said: "Let us make the 3B's in our image after our likeness and let them have dominion over the fish that are not in the sea and the organizations of Central and over every thing that moveth about within the halls of Central."

And the Class saw everything that it had done and behold, it was very good.

And February and June were the sixth semester.

Thus the Graduating Class of 1925 finished its history and all the host of its achievements.

No man shall add unto the words of the history of this book, neither shall any man take away therefrom.

We that testify these things go quickly. Even so, come, ye prophets!

The memory of these events and the remembrance of the Class be with you all! Amen.

Class Poem

THE CLASS OF 'TWENTY-FIVE

There's a world in the space of three short years
If the class is 'Twenty-five;
There's an echo of hopes and one of fears,
A thought of the joys and a trace of the tears,
More thoughts of that Past as the Future now nears,
If the class is 'Twenty-five.

There's a mem'ry of Central and all she has done
For the class of 'Twenty-five;
There's a gleam of past frolic, a flash of past fun,
A back glance to measure the race we have run,
A gladness to see now the place we have won
For the class of 'Twenty-five.

There's a Fate that is spinning the last thread or two
Of the class of 'Twenty-five,
A thread, Oh Central, whose beauty is you,
Whose strength your ideals and principles, too,
The soul and the light — in whatsoever we do —
Of the class of 'Twenty-five.

We go, but forever our spirit will stand,
The spirit of 'Twenty-five,
Failures, successes; by work it was fanned,
Guided, encouraged by thy helping hand;
We'll spread it, Oh Central, throughout all the land,
That spirit of 'Twenty-five!

Class Song

ALL HAIL TO CENTRAL!

Three long years ago we entered,
Simple freshmen were we then!
But dear Central to us offered
Joys and learning without end.

Soon our class shall leave Old Central,
How the parting makes us grieve!
Oh how glad we were to enter,
Now how loath we are to leave!

Chorus

Sing the praise of dear old Central,
Raise your voices to the sky;
Let all hearts be filled with mem'ries
Of the pleasant times gone by.
Though we're parting from thee, Central,
Thee we never shall forget.
All hail to Central — peerless Central —
Best school in the universe.
Through all the years we'll give three cheers
For dear Central High!
Three cheers for dear old Central High!

WILLIAM SMITH

Prophecy of the Class of 1925

This is station C — H — S, broadcasting from the Central Studio, Springfield, Massachusetts, nineteen hundred and forty. This evening's program will be taken up by an informal talk on Who's Who by John Canfield, the noted statistician. Stand by just one moment, folks, while Mr. Canfield gathers his notes.

"Friends, I suppose if I could see the vast and intelligent audience that is tuning in on this talk, I would have an acute attack of stage fright. However, I have prepared this evening a detailed account throwing some light on the intimate cycles of the lives of some of the famous people engaged in various fields of work. Included in the numbers that are helping to advance civilization are the scholars and teachers. One of the foremost educators of today is Professor Robert Blakeslee, F. O. B., founder of the Longmeadow College of Cross-word Puzzling. Professor Blakeslee has gathered under him a capable staff. His right hand man or Chief Puzzle Designer is Mary Louise Aiken. With her expert knowledge culled from Wentworth's Plane Geometry, Miss Aiken has composed and disected some of the most intricate designs known to Cross-word Puzzle Science. Other members of this singular institution are Carmeleta McCarthy and Christine Sauer, Ward Hurlburt, also Lorraine Shaw, Eleanor Myrick, Esther Tower and Doris Robinson. The last named were formerly kindergarten teachers, but have resigned for the more noble position of being on the horizontal and vertical squads.

On the Concert Stage, the famous opera, La Detention, has surpassed anything yet attempted in that field. It is said that this opera originated from a beautiful room where the characters as children spent many happy hours. People throng the vast hall to hear Frederick Root, who plays the part of Satan, literally shake the walls with his deep voice. The music is successfully led by the director, Helen Foskit. Esther Forristall, Pearl Haselhuhn, and Doris Reeves handle the electric pianos with superb technique. This opera, beside the two Prima Donnas, Grace Buckland and Helen Page, boasts two pair of sisters, the Reids and the Grovers. To see and hear the company render their grand chorus is a most inspiring sight.

On the Silver Sheet, the most promising stars are Hazel Sullivan and Ruth Devine. The followers of the screen say that not in many years have there been two such actresses that remind them so of that long-forgotten screen star, Gloria Swanson. Frank Riley, or, as his feminine admirers more effectionately term him, "Bud," usually plays opposite these two heart-breakers. The gossip of the screen has it that "Bud" acquired his unfailing powers to "make 'em fall" from Ramon Navarro. The head of the film company that contracts for these stars is Bushnell Richardson. Mr. Richardson started his career early by taking noble care of his class pictures in this high school.

Edward Breck, who in his youth always had a propensity for hair-raising things, has compounded a mixture that will almost put a fine hirsute growth on a marble statue. At the last meeting of the California Hair Growers' Association, it was decided by the trustees, Walter Birnie and George Foss, that the Magaziner trophy should rightly go to Mr. Breck. This prize is put up annually by David Magaziner, the bread king, who has laid aside a small fortune for the uplifting of the bald man. Paul Desrosier, the chemist, has also brought forth a potion that he calls the anti-bluff serum. On taking some of this serum, the victim can be made to tell whether or not he is bluffing. Mr. Desrosier said that it made him sorrowful to think that so many people attained things in this world by bluffing that he made this serum to disclose the culprits.

Numbered among the politicians of the day is Philip Dinsmore, president of the Agawam Interurban Railroad, the Oshkosh Tin Company, the New York Stock Exchange, the Hawaii Grass Skirts Company, and other concerns too numerous to mention. He has signified his willingness to run for President of the United States and has selected for his campaign manager, William Lane, a man from his home state. Captain Richard Danforth, U. S. Secret Service, recently reported that he and his men had located the band that had been using the Connecticut River as a means of smuggling contraband goods into Canada. These smugglers employed baskets to hide their goods in and Captain Danforth said he never before had such a hard time finding baskets. He was highly commended by Senator Borklund who says that the illegitimate smuggling must necessarily stop with such prosecution.

Among the women that are holding down positions formerly coveted by men is Miss Elizabeth Fearns, editor of Funnybones, a humorous publication. Arlene Doolittle is the chief of the local women's police force. Ruama Fison and Clara Martin have instituted the Cooks' and Butlers' Bank, solely for the help of those poor abused menials. A unique position held by a woman is that of radio broadcaster. Janet Keyes talks nightly from L. O. U. D. In an interview she said that in radio broadcasting she could find the best possible outlet for her always pent up vocal capacity, thus talking to the largest number of people at once.

On the legitimate stage, David Halpern and Natalie Center have organized a Shakespearian company. They are the successors of the Sothern and Marlowe company and are making an earnest effort to bring back the famous dramas. Also on the stage, but in far different roles, play George Baker and Betty Cody. Miss Cody, the remarkable dancer in the Follies, and Mr. Baker, the versatile comedian, with their colorful chorus, delight the Broadway theatre-goers nightly. The Breglio Saxaphone Sextette often appears with these two clever entertainers.

Some of the famous business men of the day won their high positions by seizing all opportunities that came their way. A good example of this is Abbott Stevens, president of the Arrow Collar Company. In his youth Mr. Stevens, with his Apollo-like profile, posed for the collar advertisements and soon accumulated enough money to buy out the stock. Robert E. Clark, owner of the Clark Meat Packing Company, prompted by his kind and generous heart, has acquired a ranch solely for the purpose of keeping blind cattle and making them happy and contented during their last years. Mr. Clark says his superintendent of the bull throwing department, Ulysses Cupolo, has greatly advanced the interests of the concern. Cupolo himself can even now throw the bull single-handed with astonishing agility. Harry Foxhall and Franklyn Palmer are bird fanciers. They make a special line of selling as pets the striped canary and the ringtail cuckoo, both of which are imported from the Isle of Yap. The bird trainers are not content to let their assistants handle the birds but take them in hand personally. They recently had a polka-dotted crow which took first prize in the exhibition of strange birds, held at Madison Square Garden, New York.

The prize for the advancement of the automobile must go to Kilbourne Bump. The Bumpy Eight in a line reflects the ingenuity of this man. He was assisted in his work by Myron Isherwood who recently perfected a balloon tire filled, not with air, but with steam, which is said to give astonishing effects.

Two artists of note are Gertrude Lapham and Mary Simonton. Miss Lapham won the Royal Academy prize with her "Giraffe with a sore throat." Miss Simonton, the stage scene painter, recently went under contract with Laurencia Guenette, Belasco's property mistress, to supply the scenes for his new play.

Charlotte Marshman, the physical educator, gives people their daily dozen over the radio at 7 a. m. every morning. To supplement her, Marian Underwood and Neva Snider, nurses in the Agawam City Hospital, give talks on various subjects, such as how to train unruly hair.

Archie Jefferson and John McDonald coached the basketball team that won the college championship, while another champion, Leonard Penn, the chess wizard, lately retired, his reason being that continual victories were getting monotonous.

Thelma Clark and Marguerite Cloutier are successfully running a hotel at Palm Beach. Among the winter patronage is Barnes Moller, the Brookfield clothing man; and David Colton, the owner of the Colton Follies, who says it is a relief to get away from the difficult and trying task of managing his unruly but beautiful chorus. One notable who just arrived there is Roderick Root, the big game hunter, who brings many trophies from the wilds of Patagonia.

Irving Baker, Arthur Holbrook, and Edyth McKenzie, the astronomers connected with the Mount Tom Observatory, predict earthquakes for the Fiji Islands in thirty hundred and seven. They were also the first to discover the canal boats that ply on the Martian canals.

The literary lights of today are numberless, but a few hold the closest attention. One striking piece of work is the book, The World at Its Worst, written by Ruth Batchelder and Barbara Fison. Another, The Art of Criticising, written by Robert Ehrlich with the collaboration of Melvin Holstien, has drawn much comment. The essays of J. Wesley MacIntyre are read in all the present literary institutions, while the contributions of William Smith in the form of amusing satires come in at times when the piano jazz artist is at his leisure. The writer of rather radical works, Samuel Freedman, in his Bolshevist's Impression of Kalamazoo has drawn the attention of political circles.

I suppose you all remember the kidnapping of one of Chicago's millionaire children that was in the public eye last year and how one suspect was on the verge of serving a term of life imprisonment. Not much notice was given to the lawyers who saved the man from conviction. However, the credit goes to Robert Simcovitz and Thomas Moriarty who, working on evidence found by the Chief of Police, Norman Dodge, found the guilty man and cleared the other one of the charge.

William Spencer, president, and Ward Hurlburt, treasurer, of the Anglo-American Aero Transportation Company have just received the news that one of their superplanes, piloted by Allen Belden, has made a non-stop flight to Australia with gold for the banks and, perhaps, saved the country from a serious financial panic.

I have covered those people that are prominent in the various fields of endeavor and will conclude with the names of a few women who have successfully proved the theory that a man's place may also be a woman's. The Bliss sisters, with their Greenwich Village tea rooms, Madeline Gibbons, who has just left for an exploring trip in the very heart of Africa, and Faith Le Fort, editor of the Washington Tribune, have all successfully stepped into men's shoes. We should all be proud of these people who, through their ingenuity and endeavor, have accomplished so much in the teeming life of today.

You have just heard John Canfield, the statistician, talk from the Central Studio. This concludes the evening's program. This is station C. H. S., signing off at 10.30 Eastern Standard time — goodnight, folks.

Prophecy on Prophets

Scenes from the Lives of Famous People

Scene 1: Central High School, Springfield, Mass.

Time: 1925

Tall, light-haired lady reading, reading! Reading what? Why, proof reading for the Recorder. Who? Rosemary Lynch, of course! Reading, writing, scribbling, "O K"ing. Clock goes around once; clock goes around twice; clock goes around three times. Rosemary exits.

Scene 2: Office of Scribners' Publishing Co., New York

Time: 1940

Enter tall, light-haired lady. Who? Guess! Smiling editor greets her; hands her a book bound in bright red (red was always her color). More talking; more congratulating; Rosemary exits.

Scene 3: Window of Court Square Bookstore, Springfield, Mass.

Time: 1940

Bright red! Bright red! Books! Books! New York Times literary comments! Boston Transcript comments! People coming and going! Tons of them! Bright red splashes under their arms! My, but Rosemary is a success!

Scene 1: Nice, big, dirty, mud puddle

Time: 1912

Boys! Lots of them! Barefooted! Sail boats! All kinds! Homemade ones, boughten ones, and even imported ones from England. Who's that long-legged boy? Atwood Bent, don't you know him? Oh, you must!

Scene 2: Somewhere on the Maine coast

Time: 1925

Glimpses of a long, gray, smoothly-gliding speedboat seen through the foaming salt spray. The "Imp." Who's her pilot? Oh, he's "King of the Coast." But what's his name? Why, you ought to know! Atwood Bent, of course!

Scene 3: The hurried, bustling dock of the Bent Line at New York harbor

Time: 1940

People coming and going! Suitcases! Boxes! Steamer trunks! Adieux! Bon Voyage! Lowering of the gangplank! More people! More adieux! Raising of the gangplank! The dirty tugboat slowly piloting the massive ocean liner out into the channel! The largest liner in the world — the "Bentina" of the Bent Line!

CLARA MARTIN

Will of the Class of 1925

We, the class of 1925, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and twenty-five, and of the foundation of Central High School, the eighty-fourth, being in full and complete possession of our faculties of mind and body, yet considering the uncertainties of our life, do hereby declare, asseverate, and proclaim this document to be our last will and testament.

Article I. We hereby appoint Miss Snell, our devoted class adviser, and Mr. E. E. Smith, a most popular professor, to be our legal executors. All provisions and bequests, as herein stipulated, are by them to be duly executed.

Article II. To the class of 1925½, we will and bequeath our ability to do anything and everything better than anybody and everybody; said ability to be used only in times of great stress.

Article III. "Phil" Dinsmore, who, as you know, is a master of all the leading dance steps, including the Collegiate, the Ritz, and other stately terpsichorean glides, hereby leaves his ability to trip the light fantastic to Harold Knapp, Jr.

Article IV. "Bud" Riley, who everyone knows is a most flirtatious "Dapper Dan," leaves his flirting, petting, and other girl-delighting qualities to "Joe" Sawtell, because "Bud" realizes that after his departure from these halls of learning the poor girls must be amused.

Article V. "Dick" Danforth, the mighty athlete, the terror of all neighboring quintets and baseball nines, leaves his proficiency in athletics to Charles McAllister.

Article VI. "Betty" Fearns, who enjoys the most intense popularity, bequeaths the said popularity to Muriel Hillman in the hope that it will enable her to enjoy as much social pleasure as has "Betty."

Article VII. "Red" Clark, whose sunny figure has continually lighted up the dark corridors of Central, hereby leaves his brilliant crowning glory to "Red" Connor.

Article VIII. Atwood Bent, the fast-working Valentino of the Class of 1925, leaves his ability to be an irresistible sheik to Charles Bassin.

Article IX. "Deac" Root, who enjoys the sublime bliss of being the class bachelor, and who is absolutely impervious to the wiles of every type of feminine charm, wills his power to withstand despairing maidens to Wendell Hess.

Article X. Inasmuch as everyone loves a handsome man, Abbott Stevens, whose manly beauty will no longer be seen in Central's corridors, attracting the coy flappers as candy attracts kids, now and forevermore stipulates that his classic handsomeness is to go to "Dick" Woodbury.

Article XI. Paul Desrosier, the teachers' despair, bequeaths his marvelous bluffing abilities to John Sullivan, with the hope that it will aid "Sully" in graduating during the next decade.

Article XII. Janet Keyes, who is called by various respectful epithets such as "the nerviest girl," "the class girl cut-up," and "the most flirtatious girl," hereby leaves the right to be called by such honorable names to "Dot" Devine.

Article XIII. Realizing that the inexorable hands of time are about to snatch him away from Central, "Bill" Woodruff bequeaths his powers to perform all kinds of tricks and above all his ability to elude the eternal vigilance of the teachers to Clyde Gill.

Article XIV. The most beautiful girl of the Class of 1925, Hazel Sullivan, wills her winsome comeliness to Betty Proctor.

Article XV. Inasmuch as the Class of '25 believes that student government will soon be instituted at Central; inasmuch as the class realizes that many important changes will have to be made by the student governing body; inasmuch as the class foresees that money will be needed to make the changes the class hereby leaves a sum of money to be used for the following purposes:

(1) To install and maintain a smoking room, so that students who are devotees of Lady Nicotine will not have to hide behind the portables to enjoy a few fragrant puffs;

(2) To supply all freshmen with free milk twice a day, so that the youngsters will grow into healthy, hearty, handsome Seniors, like the Class of '25.

We appoint as trustees of this fund the following:

William Birnie	Parker Remkus
Stanley Fletcher	Louis Schermerhorn

Article XVI. Inasmuch as Mr. Edwin E. Smith has continually received gallons and gallons of useless hair tonic as sarcastic gifts from previous classes, the Class of '25, taking pity on Mr. Smith's sad predicament, hereby bequeaths him an automobile (not a Dodge) guaranteed to run on hair tonic.

Article XVII. We, the Class of '25, will and bequeath to the C. H. S. lunch department a cord of wood and a box of matches so that in the future, students passing on the third bell may have warm soup and hash which, up to this time, have never been obtainable in other than a frozen condition.

Article XVIII. Every student at Central has witnessed and heard the terrible punishment that has been inflicted on the piano in the assembly hall at recess. Certain members of the Class of '25 who have willfully tortured the helpless piano have become remorseful to such an extent that they bequeath a full set of shock absorbers and discord preventers to be attached to every key of the mistreated piano.

Article XIX. To Mr. Hill, the best principal of the best high school in the best of all solar systems, the Class of 1925 leaves the fond memory of our many glorious accomplishments.

Article XX. To the future and the haven of well completed labors, we leave the faculty and hope that when they either ascend or descend to this place, they will always remember the Class of 1925.

In witness whereof we have signed and published and declared this, our last will and testament, on this tenth day of March, 1925.

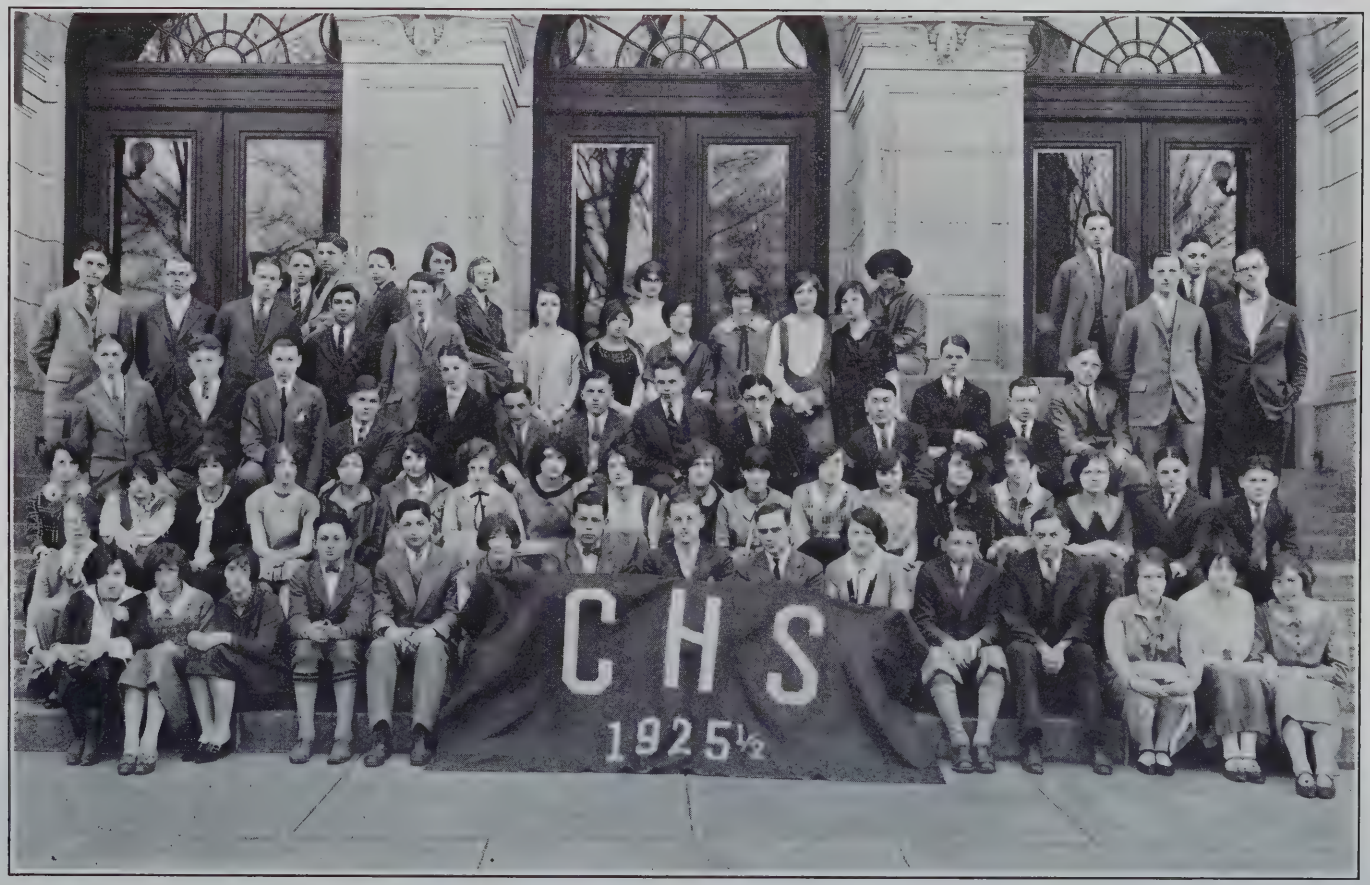

Signed: PHILIP DINSMORE,
President

Signed, published, and declared by the above-named president as and for the last will and testament of the Class of 1925 in the presence of us who, at his request, have drawn up and signed as witnesses to the same.

History

In January, 1923, the Class of '25½ began its career at Central. The 1B Social, the first of three successful socials, was held late in the spring of 1923. The 1A Social took place in November of the same year, and the 2B Social in the spring of 1924.

Following the school custom of presenting a gift to the school during the 2A semester, the class made arrangements with the trustees of the Liberty Chest to buy a state flag for the assembly hall. Each of the two paid one-half the price of the flag, and the class presented it to the school in January, 1925.

Two of the biggest dances held in recent years were the Junior Prom of October 31, 1924, and the 3B Cabaret Dance of March 27, 1925.

The class is proud of its success and is now planning for an even more successful 3A semester with which to close its stay at Central.

History

The Class of '26 is proud of the fine record that its members have made since the class entered Central in September, 1923. They have distinguished themselves in athletics, dramatics, and scholarship.

On January 11, 1924, the class held a very successful 1B Social in the gym. An equally successful 1A Social was held on May 10 of the same year; and one of the best socials ever was held in the 2B semester on October 21. As this book goes to press, elaborate preparations are being made for a Junior Prom to be held in May, which, from all indications, will be as great a success as the three socials.

The class showed great interest in the student self-government movement. The idea of student self-government for home rooms originated in this class. At the suggestion of the home-room teacher, the students in room 192 took charge of the room. Room 196 soon followed suit, and before long several rooms of other classes took up the idea.

There are many capable and energetic students in the class who reflect great credit upon the class and upon the school; and Central is justly proud of them.

History

After entering Central in January, 1924, the Class of '26½ very quickly became acquainted with Central institutions. Many of its members are now active in athletics and in several of the school organizations.

In the first semester, a social was held, which was surpassed only by the one held in the second semester. As the book goes to press, the class is looking forward to an entertaining 2B Social to take place in May.

The two largest rooms occupied by the class, rooms 206 and 227, inaugurated self-government soon after the student self-government question was brought up.

We hope that the Class of '26½ will continue its interest in Central, and that it will keep up the school spirit that it has shown during its first three semesters here.

History

Last September the Class of '27 began its career in "the best school in the solar system". The members of this class entered the activities of the school more quickly than do most Freshmen. They have made an exceptional record in scholarship and in athletics. In fact, one of their number has been elected captain of next year's soccer team, and a second has been elected to lead our 1925 football eleven.

On January 16 in the school gym, the class held a social that proved a marked success.

Taking an interest in the self-government agitation, the class instituted a system of self-government in room 105, its largest home room.

After making such a brilliant start, the Class of '27 will, undoubtedly, have a glowing record to show when it leaves "dear old Central".

History

The Class of '27½, which entered Central last January, seems to have much promising material in it. As yet we know only a very little about its members, but, judging from the number whose names appear on the honor roll and from the great interest that they all have shown in the student self-government movement, we are confident that our latest arrivals will do justice to themselves and bring more fame and glory to Central.

Le secret est qu'à toute question
On dit toujours: "Oui! Oui!"

Centrale est une école modèle
Car on y est sur son honneur — et
Tu peux croire tout ce que j'ai dit;
Mais on sait que je suis grand menteur.

Wo er nicht schwarz ist, ist er grau
auch blau.
Er ist nicht hoch, und jetzt nicht mehr gesund —
Heisser Hund!

A Review of the Year

The school year 1924—1925 has been one of great significance. In the fall the interest of the school was centered upon the mock presidential campaign and elections. The Junior College students, the faculty and students of Central High School, and the faculty and 3B and 3A classes of the State Street Junior High School participated. On November 4 elections were held, with the following results: Coolidge and Dawes, 799; La Follette and Wheeler, 195; Davis and Bryan, 144; and Johns (Socialist-Labor), 1.

During the past year the drama class has put on, in addition to the customary school plays, two one-act plays: Mansions and The Knave of Hearts. Twelfth Night, which was played before large audiences on December 12 and 13, was a tremendous success; and Pomander Walk, staged on May 8 and 9, was accepted with equal enthusiasm.

The desire of the students to handle their own problems has been increasing since the formation of the Student Advisory Board in January, 1922. The Student Welfare Board, the Student Police Force, the Auxiliary Welfare Board, and the Lost and Found Agency were all results of this increasing interest of the students in matters directly concerning them. This year another step was taken. When it was suggested that a prompter be hired to prevent improper dancing at school dances, the proposition of having this work done by a student prompter was put forth. This idea was put into practice and proved extremely successful.

The question of the Honor System was brought before the Student Advisory Board and an honor code was drawn up. The code and the Honor System in general were discussed by the upper classes. As this book goes to press no definite action has been taken on the matter, but even if it goes no further this year, the discussion has been of great value.

The ambition of the students to handle still more of their problems led to a movement for a system of student self-government. A former chairman of the Student Advisory Board and several prominent undergraduates, with the co-operation of the principal and teachers, conducted a big campaign in favor of a modified form of self-government. The school voted 453 to 390 in favor of the plan, but it was thought advisable not to inaugurate the new system until a greater number of students was in favor of it.

However, several home rooms instituted systems of self-government and achieved notable results. Through these rooms the matter was kept before the school. As the weeks passed, the number of students favoring the plan grew larger and it soon became evident that sooner or later the school would adopt a plan of student self-government.

The school year 1924—1925 will always mean a great deal to the Central High School, not so much for the actual events which occurred as for the foundations for future development which were laid at this time.

In January, 1922, the Student Advisory Board was formed to promote the co-operation of all the student organizations in fostering school spirit and to establish a medium for the effectual concentration and expression of student opinion. Kendall Joy, senior president of the Class of '21½, proposed the plan of organization. Miss Snell was the first faculty adviser. The membership of the board consists of the president of each class, the president or corresponding officer of each student activity, and three faculty members appointed by the principal.

During the World War, the War Activities Board, composed of teachers and students, supervised the school's efforts to help win the war. Among other things, this board sponsored the buying of war-saving stamps and liberty bonds. These stamps and bonds, as well as others presented by graduating classes, were the property of the whole school, and after the war, Mr. Ralph P. Boas, a former head of our English Department, suggested that a Liberty Chest of the matured bonds and stamps be formed. His suggestion was soon adopted.

The six trustees of the Chest, including the principal, a teacher elected by the teachers, a member of the alumni chosen by the principal, and the three upper-class presidents, have charge of the expenditure of the interest for Magna Cum Laude pins, the 3B Declamation Contest prizes, and other things of value to the school. The principal, now amounting to $2,671.50 is augmented from time to time by any surplus remaining in the treasuries of the graduating classes, and is left untouched.

Up to 1921 there was no school annual. The nearest thing to it was the Pnalka, a class book published by each class for its own benefit when it graduated. The change from the semi-annual class book to the school year book was suggested by Mr. Hill, and brought about through the untiring efforts of Mr. Arthur C. Curtis. The last edition of the Pnalka appeared in the spring of 1921.

The first year book appeared in June, 1921. This was the Brown and Gold, sponsored by the Class of '21. A year later the first edition of the Blue and White appeared. Mr. Curtis, who was faculty adviser for both of these publications, was largely responsible for their success.

Faculty Adviser, MR. ARTHUR C. CURTIS

The school weekly, the Central Recorder, enjoys an exceptionally high standing among the high school papers of the country. Its fine reputation is due chiefly to the work of the faculty adviser, Mr. Arthur C. Curtis, who has given freely of his time and labor during the five years that the paper has been published in its present form, to make it a success.

The Central Recorder, however, was not the first school paper. The first weekly was the Central News, a small four-page sheet that was published from the fall of 1915 to the fall of 1917. A contemporary of this weekly was a magazine, known as the Recorder, which appeared six times a year. This magazine was published jointly by the three high schools until 1917, when the partnership ended. During the next two years it was published quarterly by the Central High School alone under the name of the Central Recorder. From the fall of 1917 to the fall of 1920, the school weekly also appeared under the name of the Central Recorder. In 1920 the magazine and the paper joined interests, and a large four-page weekly, the Central Recorder of today, made its first appearance.

In the latter part of 1923, Stanley Caron, then president of the Senate and president of the Class of '24, conceived the idea of a large organization, comprised of the members of the four debating clubs of the school, before which prominent citizens should be invited to come and speak. The members would, in this way, get pointers on public speaking and would profit by the information obtained from the speeches given. In January and February of 1924 the Affiliated Debating Societies was organized. Mr. Allen H. Knapp was chosen faculty adviser. Every member of the four debating societies is a member of this organization. Each society elects a representative to serve on the program committee. The officers are elected from the entire membership, but no two officers can be elected from any one of the four debating societies.

Pierides, "The Daughters of the Muses," one of the oldest organizations of Central, is a girls' literary and debating society. It was formed in 1906. In 1916 interest in debating had increased to such an extent that it was deemed advisable to divide the club into two houses, Alpha and Beta. Alpha is now composed of upper-class girls and Beta of lower-class girls. The Chairman of Alpha is President of Pierides. Each spring there is held the Phillips Prize Debate, in which girls from both houses participate.

Pierides Beta, the division of Pierides reserved for 1B, 1A, and 2B girls, was first organized as a separate debating society in 1916. As in Pierides Alpha, bi-weekly meetings are held, at which club members debate. Once each month a literary program is presented at a joint meeting of the two sections. These literary meetings, which are an innovation of the past semester, have in every way proved a decided success.

The girls of Pierides Beta, as well as those of Alpha, are eligible for the annual Phillips Prize Debate.

On November 6, 1923, the Student Police Force, then called the Traffic Squad, began its work. It was founded by George Yarrington, '24½, who served as its chief until October, 1924. The first faculty adviser, Miss Mary E. Hadley, was elected in June, 1924. At first it was used to keep order in the lines at recess but its object now is to enforce any laws that the Student Advisory Board asks to have it enforce. Up to April, 1924, the membership was confined to the Class of '24½. Then a new constitution was drawn up by the founder which changed the name to the Student Police Force and opened the membership to all undergraduates.

"To help others to help themselves" is the object of the Student Welfare Board organized in the spring of 1923 by Merrill Keyes, Junior and Senior President of the Class of '23½. Previous to this time, the work of this organization was done entirely by Mrs. Florence W. Buzzell. The work is still executed by her but the necessary funds are raised by the boys and girls of the two Welfare Boards.

Besides raising funds to enable their faculty director to carry on her priceless work, the two boards render valuable service to the school through their free employment agency, lost and found agency, and freshman reception committee.

The Auxiliary Welfare Board was organized in December, 1923, by Jeanne Converse, then vice-president of the Class of '23½. The membership is confined to girls. In its motives and work it is similar to the Student Welfare Board.

The Student Welfare Board and the Auxiliary Board have a common treasurer, elected semi-annually at a joint meeting of the two bodies, and a common faculty manager. Joint committees of the two boards are often elected to handle large projects.

The good that is done through these two boards is realized by but few people. Although not the most important, they are unquestionably the most valuable organizations in the school.

In 1922 the Radio Club was formed through the efforts of Francis Burnett, ex-'23½, and Arthur Holbrook, '25, with Mr. Clarence M. Hall as faculty adviser. At the meetings, instructive talks are given by the faculty adviser and members of the club who have read on special topics.

The club has the use of the science department's radio set. Other sets have been loaned by club members and local dealers in radio instruments.

In 1921 the Central High School Nisimaha Club was formed under the direction of Miss Robenia F. Anthony of the school faculty. This club, which is not a school organization, is a section of the Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A., made up of Central students. Weekly meetings are held in the Y. W. C. A. building on Howard Street. During the year prominent men and women give lectures to the girls on topics of current interest.

The history of the school orchestra begins in 1916. Up to this time, there was one big orchestra made up of musicians from the three high schools. In 1916 this orchestra broke up. The Central High School Orchestra was then formed.

This orchestra occasionally appears in school assemblies and regularly plays at the Christmas assembly and the semi-annual school plays. Especial credit is due the orchestra for its splendid work.

At the graduation exercises in the Auditorium an all-school orchestra made up of the best players of the school orchestras of the three high schools furnishes music. Most of the members of the Central orchestra appear with the big graduation orchestra.

The Music Club of Central High School was organized under the direction of Miss Mary Regal in 1924, to answer the demand for a club which would afford an opportunity for the display of the talents of Central students interested in music. At the meetings, which are held on every third Monday, members of the club present varied programs, very ably performed. Each spring a public recital is given by the more talented members of the club.

Le Cercle Francais, one of the oldest organizations in Central, was formed in 1907 under the direction of Mrs. Grace L. Russell who became its first faculty adviser. The club, whose membership is limited to twenty, holds monthly meetings at the homes of the members. At these meetings conversation is carried on entirely in French, a fine of one cent being imposed for each lapse into English. The members are taught French games and songs; and poetry and literature, as well as plays, are read and studied.

The Players, the only dramatic club of Central, was organized in 1919 with Mr. Raymond E. Fenner as faculty adviser. Plays, both old and new, are studied and presented by the members. Each meeting is in charge of a committee which arranges a program, assisted by whatever members it may choose. Members of any class above 1B who are passing in all subjects and who receive A or B in English are eligible to try out for membership.

Dramatics

Since 1921 it has been the custom of the school to present a school play each semester under the management of the graduating class. Previous to this time the semi-annual plays had been purely Senior projects under the direction of the English department.

Beginning in February, 1923, the casts for these productions and other minor plays presented during the year have been selected from the drama class, which is supervised by Miss Elizabeth Bell, who came to Central to take charge of school dramatics in 1923. Through Miss Bell's efforts, marked improvement has been made, as was well attested by the two major plays of the past school year, Twelfth Night and Pomander Walk. The former, one of Shakespeare's most popular comedies, was produced on December 12 and 13 under the management of the Class of '24½, and the latter, a delightful English play by Louis Parker, on May 8 and 9 under the management of the Class of '25.

School Motto: Scholarship First.

School Slogan: Nobody should do that which if everybody did would destroy society.

School Colors: Blue and White.

To the Seniors —

Have you noticed
With a sigh
How the days are flying by —

Parting ways
Coming soon
And the time to say goodbye?

Boys' Athletic Association

OFFICERS

President, Curtis Arnold (resigned), James Prendergast
Vice-President, James Prendergast (resigned)

Faculty Manager, Mr. Raymond E. Fenner

Up to 1919 the athletic interests of the three high schools were combined; there was but one athletic association for the three schools, and only one team represented them in each sport. In 1919, however, it was decided to allow each school to look after its own athletic activities. The Central High School Athletic Association, popularly called the B. A. A., was formed at this time, with Mr. Raymond E. Fenner as faculty manager.

Through the Athletic Association, the athletic enterprises of the school are closely allied. The interest of the students in their athletic teams is stimulated through exhibitions and cheering assemblies. Moreover, every boy who goes out for a sport must belong to this organization. In September a membership drive is waged, and in the late fall an entertainment is held.

Girls' Athletic Association

OFFICERS

President, Charlotte Marshman
Vice-President, Jean Campbell
Secretary, Mima Morison
Treasurer, Ida Lillian Anderson
Faculty Advisers, Miss Gertrude McKoan, Miss Mary Owen

In 1918, Miss Dora Brown, a gym teacher in Central at that time, formed the plan of a girls' athletic association to promote further interest in athletics at Central. This was the beginning of the G. A. A., now one of the best-known organizations in Central. Each semester the freshman girls are initiated at a party. Once a year a gymnastic drill is given in a school assembly. But the biggest task of the G. A. A. is the annual fair that usually takes place at Christmas time.

AND WREATHED SMILES

A Day

It was one of the hottest days of the month, and as I happened to be visiting my Ward at this time, I thought it best to Warn-er to Doolittle. We decided that to Dodge the heat, we would spend a day in the Woods. Not a very Longtine afterwards, we passed the Dorman, who was singing a Ballard by White, and jumped into the Jordan and were away, which was quite the Wright thing to do in such weather.

After we had Dunn about ten miles, we crossed the Ferry and arrived at our destination. There we saw the beautiful Fields of flowers in Bloom, and in a nearby Marsh we perceived a new kind of Vine which has a Thorn-like Root.

I took out my Ingersoll, and seeing that it was still Early, decided to climb a large Hill to get a view of our surroundings. My Ward, however, was sleepy; therefore, she decided to lie down and take a Knapp. As it was not against the Law, I began to fish in a Brook near by. But soon my Ward's sleep was Marr-ed by the sound of a Church-Bell in the distance. She said, "The Winds-low; that's why we can hear so clearly."

By now we were both hungry; so while my friend wandered off in search of some Wood, I built a fire to Cook the Fish which I had caught in the Brook. We sat down to Eat-on the Fair-banks, which we covered with Fearns, and ate a fine luncheon of Fish, Pease, Bean(s), and Berry(s).

Since it was beginning to rain, we thought it time to Press-on; which we did, munching an Olive-r two, until we reached the car. I happened to remember an important engagement with the Boss, so I exclaimed, "Oh, Shaw, I'm afraid we'll have to Speed as Swift(ly) as possible if we expect to find a Goodro(w) to Park-er in, but I don't want to Skid-more than I can help." But almost before we had realized it, there was a Bump and all that was left of our car was Salvage. A Goodman came along and took us home in his Franklin; so thus ended a perfect Day.

Ye Earthly Paradise

Yea, verily is life in ye One and Only School likened unto Heaven. (In any case, y'know, it's something 'long that line. Eh, bien, let's g'wan) 'Tis at 8.29 and one-half minutes by ye Time-honored clock, that ye studes do arrive mobbily into Central's portals. Then do ye pedagogs most smilingly welcome them into the chambers an' tell 'em that they oughta come in a little earlier once in a blue year. (Hum!) Then ringeth throughout ye corridors ye clanging of ye knell of doom. Whereupon enter into ye school ye permanent customers of room 112. From out ye teacher's desk ye aforesaid teacher taketh ye yellow paper. Judgment is pronounced upon ye late arrivals. Then do ye pupils vacate ye room and right noisily do throng into ye assembly hall. (Meaning, of course, that they did the merry exit from their home rooms and went to assembly, with the usual silence.) There was weeping, and wailing, and gnashing of teeth. Into ye pulpit mounteth ye august principal. Then do ye pupils ope their mouths cavernously, and upward, even to ye welkin, doth beautifully horrible musick ascend. Right gladly do ye studes, hungering for knowledge disperse to their severall studies. With honeyed words ye teachers announce assignments, long, ay, even as the centuries of Central's existence. For long, wearisome hours do ye knowledge-craving students lie within ye rooms, hearing vaguely ye droning of ye teacher's voice. At once into their slumbers breaks ye alarm. Empty stomachs, crying loud for nourishment, race flying down to ye unknown depths of ye lower regions, there to absorb so-called refreshment. But alas! the joy is but temporary, and once more must the long-suffering school children return to their labors (?) and there rest until ye bell of emancipation shall sound.

Did I not say that Central was in truth likened unto Heaven? Forsooth, you bet I did; but just 'cos I said it don't make it so.

One Perfect Day

Until I started to walk to school, nothing had happened out of the ordinary.

It was when Mr. Wilson, my math. teacher, took my arm and walked down with me that I realized something must be wrong.

As I went through the corridors of the school I was followed by the admiring glances of all the girls and upperclassmen.

I got up in Latin and gave an A recitation. The French teacher congratulated me on my excellent translation. I received news that I had passed my History test with a perfect paper. Mr. Wilson begged me to explain to him how I managed logarithms so easily.

Then I finished all my homework in half an hour.

After recess I was handed a petition, signed by all the Seniors, to address their class meeting next day, on the subject, "My success in High School."

Immediately after, Mary actually consented to go to a show with me.

After school I was met by three reporters from the "Times," and the "Herald," who wanted interviews.

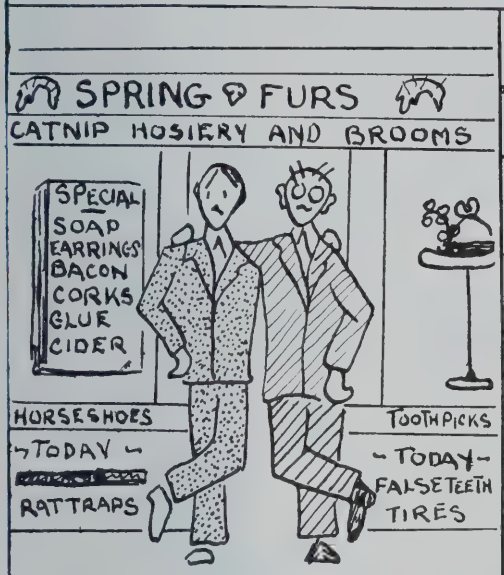

I was besieged by classmen all crying for my autograph.

At four o'clock I attended a Teachers' meeting as Guest of Honor. In answer to their numerous requests I got up and made a speech. As a result of my eloquence they voted to suspend school for a year.

In fact, there was only one possible way for such an ideal day to end

I woke up just in time for breakfast.

FORBES & WALLACE

One of New England's
Leading Department Stores

Forbes & Wallace is one of the institutions by which the city of Springfield is known to the world outside. It is the 51-years' old reputation as a modern store of progressive and steadfastly honest tendencies which makes Forbes & Wallace such a splendid representative establishment for this city.

Just think of George, our one and only G. A. Y. politician, with his hair slicked back, adorned with a red-spotted Windsor tie and twelve-inch "collegiates", on bended knees before one of Central's fair damsels, and . . . oh, don't worry, it hasn't happened yet.

Yes, Freshie, Phil's motto is: "Encouragement to all girls, but entangling promises to not more than four."

Freshie thinks that Central's traffic squad is atrocious, and the Seniors are no good. Freshie had better look out. Freshie won't be quite so fresh if the Seniors get hold of Freshie.

Oh Lucy, Lucy Jewett,
We thought you'd surely rue it
When you asked Bill to the dance;
Caught him quite with one shy glance.
Oh Lou, how could you do it!

There was a young fellow named Halpern
Who most often did suffer from heartburn,
For his Rose was so pretty,
She surpassed the whole city,
What a lot our poor David must learn!

When You Select This Bank

In selecting this bank as their banking home, our customers were influenced by several reasons.

Some came because of the recommendation of friends—others at the invitation of this Company to try its service. Many selected us for our convenient location, while others were willing to go a little out of their way to utilize our facilities.

Everyone is here because "we satisfy." A very good reason for selecting your banking home.

Little Julie White
Got up to recite
With her vanity tight in her hand;
She made a mistake,
Such as one shouldn't make,
And faintly she murmured, "My land!"

There was a nice girlie named Mitton,
Who on a nice boy-ie was smitten.
She said to him, "Stewie,
I like only you-ie."
So that's why this Limerick's written.

HEARD IN THE ENGLISH CLASS

Mr. Curtis: "The sun, my dear people, rises at 3.30 a.m."
Bill Clark: "I always thought the sun rose at 4.30."
Mr. Curtis: "Tut, you never got up that early to find out."
Bill Clark, sleepily: "I know it. I was just going to bed."

George Yarrington: "Somebody's always wiping his feet on me."
"Dot" Hayden: "I was just wondering where I could wipe my feet."

Innocent Freshie, doubtless, meant no harm when he wondered what "Deac" is going to do when he grows up.

Mr. Curtis (Giving a spelling lesson) "The next word is 'sauce'."
Dinny: "What kind of sauce?"
Mr. C.: "Apple sauce"

Mr. Curtis: "You see, class, Hamlet was worried because his mother had married his father's brother's wife."

Miss Anthony: "Boys, how many of you know who Venus is?" Several hands.
Miss Anthony: "And Bacchus?" No hands at all.
Miss Anthony: "Fine! May you always be as ignorant."
